Our establishment has proudly taken its name from Daniel Hudson Burnham (September 4, 1846 – June 1, 1912), who was an American architect and urban designer. Among Burnham’s many achievements was the creation of the Group Plan of 1903, which conceived the “Cleveland Mall”.

The Cleveland Mall today is the centerpiece of the city, providing the green spaces above the Cleveland Convention Center, and was the inspiration of many of the great architectural creations of Cleveland in the early 1900’s. The Cleveland Mall was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1975. Burnham is also credited in designing Union Station in Washington DC and The Flat Iron Building in New York City, among many others.

HELP US CELEBRATE HILTON'S
100 YEARS OF HOSPITALITY!

Our Pina Colada

*coconut milk, puerto rican rum, fresh pineapple and cream...
just how monchito meant it to be!*

14

In 1954, our Hilton Caribe bartender Ramón “Monchito” Marrero created a special cocktail that mixed rum, coconut cream and pineapple juice – and the delicious Piña Colada was born! The drink was served personally by the creator for 35 years while he worked as a bartender at the hotel, and in 1978, the Piña Colada was declared the official drink of Puerto Rico. In 2004, Caribe Hilton was presented with a proclamation, signed by Puerto Rico’s Governor Sila María Calderón, supporting the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the Piña Colada.
