

HISTORY

When Baron Viktor Kalcheberg wanted to provide his steamship passengers with a place to stay in Dubrovnik, the Venetian architect Ludwig Tischler was commissioned to design a hotel and The Imperial was opened two years later in 1897.

HOSPITALITY

The Imperial brought modernity to the area but also embraced its traditions of hospitality. It quickly established itself as the venue where important social events took place; the hotel with a soul soon became the soul of the city. Indeed it is known to locals as “the hotel which remembers”.

MIXOLOGY

1897 was also the year the Shaw Book of Cocktails was published. Using this as an inspiration, our drinks are a nod to a bygone era, with all of our cocktails directly related to those available in the 19th century. Through our menu we will take you back. Back to times long gone, tales long forgotten, a time of luxury, simplicity, elegance and individuality.

Signature Cocktails

Old Grog

The origin of the name "grog", for rum diluted with water, is attributed to Admiral Edward Vernon. He was known for wearing coats made of program cloth, earning him the nickname of Old Grog, which in turn came to mean diluted rum. The use of citrus juice helped to avoid scurvy.

Havana 7yo, Falernum, fresh lime, sugar syrup, Angostura.

84 Kn

Drake

In 1586, Sir Francis Drake's ships sailed towards Havana. It was known that the locals had remedies for various tropical illnesses, so a small boarding party went ashore and came back with ingredients for an effective medicine: aguardiente de caña mixed with lime, sugarcane juice and mint. Called El Draque at the time, it came to be known as the Mojito.

Cachaça, mint, sugar cane syrup, fresh lime, sparkling water.

86 Kn

Ditto, Cock-Tail

The first written reference to a cocktail appeared in March 1798. London's Morning Post & Gazetteer published a satirical report on politicians' pub debts including the Prime Minister, Mr Pitt: two petits of L'huile de Venus, Ditto, one of perfect amour, Ditto, cock-tail. A cock-tail was a simple mix of Gin and ginger syrup. Here is our homage to the original.

Beefeater, ginger shrub, fresh mint, fresh lime, sugar cane syrup.

89 Kn

Milk Punch

First mentioned by William Sackville in 1688, made popular by the playwright Aphra Ben, recorded by Benjamin Franklin and issued a Royal warrant by Queen Victoria. Always versatile, always good.

When history repeats itself, it's for a good reason.

Milk washed Havana 3yo, lemon, vanilla, cinnamon, star anise, sugar, pomegranate tea.
