NEW TOWN HALL
The new seat of the Czech Museum of Music is located at Lesser Town, built in the 17th Century. The unusual symbiosis of the early Baroque church architecture with the classicist adjustment of usage and newly finished reconstruction of the Museum offers visitors a detail of an impressive combination of monumentality. The perfect place for receptions, buffet style dinners and gala dinners, compatible with a private historical tramway sightseeing tour prior the dinner.

Banquet capacity: 180 guests

Reception capacity: 250 guests
The historic building of the former Commodity Exchange in Prague is a pantheon of the world of finance and it has been sensitively renovated to preserve its architectural grandeur. Its standard of comfort, craftsmanship and conservative luxury is the very embodiment of that world, recommendable for receptions, buffet style dinners and gala dinners. Events can be combined with a private historical tramway sightseeing tour prior the dinner.

The Stone Bell House is situated in the heart of Prague, right in the Old Town Square. With its origins dating back to the 13th century and its notable gothic frontage, the Stone Bell House is a stunning, unique venue for any social event with small groups, such as buffet style dinners and gala dinners, including wedding ceremonies. During summer months, the atrium is an ideal place for welcome drinks.

Banquet capacity: 70 guests
Reception capacity: 80 guests
The Industrial Palace, built in the art nouveau style in 1891, used to be the main building of the Jubilee Exhibition and still is the centerpiece of many trade fairs and exhibitions. It consists of a central part with a 51-meter-high clock tower, and two wings. The Industrial Palace can be utilized for various purposes, including gala dinners, buffet style dinners, receptions, balls, fashion shows or concerts.

Banquet capacity: 1280 guests
Reception capacity: 1600 guests
Discover the discreet charm of this Baroque work of art in Prague’s Lesser Quarter while enjoying buffet style or gala dinners. Originally built in 1654, it is now protected as a historical landmark by UNESCO. The palace has had many famous guests over the years, such as opera diva Emmy Destinn, or the scientist Joachim Barrande. Kaiserstein Palace has a variety of halls and function rooms available to meet all social event requirements in a refined style.

Banquet capacity: 130 guests
Reception capacity: 200 guests
Kaunic Palace is situated in the area of Prague’s New Town, where a cluster of small houses has existed since the late 14th century. While the immediate neighborhood underwent gradual reconstruction, with many new places and monasteries being built, this particular location remained rather neglected until the 18th century. Nowadays it can be used for smaller events, receptions, buffet style dinners and gala dinners.

Banquet capacity: 90 guests
Reception capacity: 150 guests
The late Baroque style of the refectory and small saloon make an ideal setting for all occasions. The small saloon is particularly well suited for corporate meetings. The dominant feature in the refectory is the organ which is available for recitals during events or otherwise provides an atmospheric backdrop.

The palace is a multi functional space that is easily reached since it is located in the Prague lesser town.

MALOSTRANSKY PALACE

Banquet capacity: 130 guests
Reception capacity: 150 guests
This Renaissance palace dates back to the 16th century with original graffito decorations on the walls, representing scenes from the Old Testament. The four wings palace is part of Prague’s landmark reservation, registered on UNESCO list. As one of the most beautiful Renaissance houses in Prague, located at the corner of the Hradčany Square, opposite the Prague castle, it is the ideal venue for events, receptions, buffet style dinners and gala dinners.

Banquet capacity: 100 guests
Reception capacity: 200 guests
The Municipal House, a national cultural landmark, is one of the most significant art nouveau buildings in Prague, and is located in the very center of the city. The building houses the large Smetana Hall as well as many adjacent smaller halls, each of them in a different architectural style. After several partial reconstructions, Municipal house provides historic venues for buffet style dinners and gala dinners, equipped with all the modern facilities of the time.

Banquet capacity: 460 guests
Reception capacity: 700 guests
The origins of the New Town Hall date back to the 14th century. Situated on Charles Square and featuring a high tower with a bell and a chapel, the New Town Hall is a national cultural heritage site. It is an excellent choice for any event, including wedding ceremonies with buffet style or gala dinners. In 1962, the New Town Hall was declared as one of the eighteen national cultural monuments in Prague.
